

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

There is disclosed an information exchange apparatus in which apparatus name information and address information of a display/headphone are transferred to a DVD reproduction apparatus from the display/headphone via a path of an infrared ray or the like different from a radio path for exchanging information. The information are registered in the DVD reproduction apparatus. The DVD reproduction apparatus on a transmission side transmits video and audio information based on information concerning the display/headphone as a reception side registered in the reproduction apparatus, and the display/headphone on the reception side receives the video and audio information transmitted to the display/headphone.